A message from the Secretary!

At our last meeting it was somewhat disappointing to find out from the Treasurer that we only have 9 family members who are currently financial. Possibly, or should I say hopefully, some of you out there have forgotten to pay your subs. Remember we need you subs to keep our gear in 'tip top' condition so that if a fire develops in our area, we are prepared for the fight with equipment that is in good order.

Subs are only $10 a single or $30 a family, such a small insurance for keeping our properties safe from serious fires, which I might add, we have been fortunate enough to avoid for some years. So please, it is important to pay your subs. You can send your cheque, made out to the 'Bungonia Rural Fire Service', 'Chezden', 815 Mountain Ash Road, Bungonia or Paul Bayliss, King Street, Bungonia anytime!

Thank you, Cherie Jenkins

HALL ENTRANCE: We are gradually bringing the Hall up to the standards required by the Licensing Authority and our next project is to upgrade the main door entrance. Bob Everingham had generously offered to design the new entrance incorporating wheelchair access, a roof over the door and provision for our new notice board. The Board was donated by Trish's Trash & Treasure.

VILLAGE CHRISTMAS PARTY: Saturday 16th December. BYO everything. The Hall BBQ will be lit for those who like to BBQ and tea and coffee will be available. Everyone is invited and we hope new residents will take the opportunity to meet fellow Bungonians. If the weather is unpleasant we move into the Hall. GARDENING IN NOVEMBER

It is time to fertilise the lawn. Use a good lawn fertiliser and if we don't have a lot of rain, then we need to put plenty of water on them so the fertiliser does not burn the lawn.

Roses should be sprayed with Malathon or Rogor if aphids appear and you can also spray with Zineb or Benlate for Black Spot. If you go to your nursery, they may stock a general rose spray which will treat most things with one chemical. Also, feed your roses with a complete fertiliser.

Plant salad vegetables such as lettuce, squash and cucumber now for a Christmas harvest.

It is also time to watch for fruit fly as well, they are active on developing fruit and tomatoes. Telltale signs are small pockmarks on the fruit. Tomatoes have a small pinprick and the surrounding area stays green. Apply a splash bait made from 7ml of maldison and 50g of sugar, dissolved in 1 litre of water. Splash mixture onto leaves and trunks. Fenthion (Lebayid) and dimethoate (Rogor) will control fruit flies but must be used strictly as directed.

Feed Citrus and other fruit trees with blood and bone or all purpose plant food. Apply as far as the dripline or the extent of branch spread. Soak the area well.

It is also time to propagate English May

Handy Hints: Clean moss and algae from paths which were in the shade during winter to make your garden safer. The simplest way is to apply neat vinegar or a mix of equal parts water and strong disinfectant. Scrub firmly with a stiff brush, leave for an hour or so and hose off residue with a strong jet from the hose. If the problem persists, repeat the process in one week. This method does not affect the plants and environment the way chemicals do.

The Times Raffle raised a wonderful $301.00 thanks to the Bungonia Quilters. The quilt was won by a local lady. Bungonia Creek

Recent developments in water management have brought about a situation where you can have input into decisions about Bungonia Creek and, indeed, I would welcome your assistance.

In the State Government's report on stressed rivers and streams in the Shoalhaven catchment, Bungonia Creek has been given the highest rating.

This is a concern that we should look towards turning into an opportunity and I believe this can happen through the new Illawarra/Shoalhaven Catchment Management Committee.

Last month I attended the inaugural meeting of this committee in Nowra because I have been appointed by the Minister as the alternate Local Government representative.

About the Committee

The committee has an independent Chairman from Wollongong University and delegates from a number of community organisations, including environmental groups.

Government agencies are also represented: Department of Land and Water Conservation, Agriculture, Fisheries, the Sydney Catchment Authority, etc.

Community delegates were selected to represent either the Shoalhaven or the Illawarra catchments and each delegate has an "alternate".

Local Government falls into the "community" category and is represented on the committee by a Councillor from Kiama Council (Illawarra) and someone from Shoalhaven Water.

I am the Shoalhaven area's Local Government "alternate". Ken Knights from Oallen Ford is another community "alternate" and we are the only members representing the Upper Shoalhaven catchment.

What this Means

The committee decided last month that alternate members would have the right to attend all meetings, participate fully in discussions and vote on issues and proposals.

The only exception to this would be in a case where there was a difference of opinion and the "alternate's" opinion was contrary to the consensus of the rest of the group.

As a Local Government member, I represent residents and ratepayers as well as Council.

Committee Powers

The State Government is currently debating the new Water Reform Bill in Parliament. They intend to have it passed early this month and gazetted by December.

A lot of Federal Government funding rides on this, so I believe they will push hard to achieve this goal.

Once the Bill becomes law, the committee's role begins and it appears that this will be highly significant.

The committee will be looking at the condition of the two catchments, concentrating in the first instance on the most stressed rivers and streams – remember Bungonia Creek fits this category – and making recommendations for action directly to the Minister.

Your Role

It is important that you have a say in this process, especially about Bungonia Creek. So, if the creek runs through your property or you have an interest in its future, please give me a call to talk about the issues.

I can be contacted on 4841 1648 (bh) or 4841 1900 (ah), by fax on 4841 1901 or email: indapat@ozemail.com.au

NOVEMBER REPORT

MORE PINES.

This year Inverary Landcare members planted over 40,000 radiata seedlings. Some were used for windbreaks and Xmas trees, but many went into larger plantations. At 1,000 per hectare, this equates to 40 hectare per year. One of the main aims of the Landcare Group is to use farm forestry plantings to combat erosion and reclaim badly affected soils. Despite the extremely adverse weather conditions a success rate of over 90% has been achieved. This can be only achieved with good ground preparation and correct planting.

The following article by Dr. Carlyle emphasises what we have already said – pines do not hurt the soil – it refutes the argument that pines turn soils acid and reduce fertility.

"Soil fertility is at least as high under mature pine plantations as in neighbouring areas of native forest, new research shows. Also, the soil under pines store as much carbon as pasture soils. This suggests fears that replacing pasture with plantation will release large quantities of soil carbon, with adverse 'greenhouse' effects, are unfounded.

The findings come from research by CSIRO Forestry and Forest Products and the Queensland forest Research Institute in the Green Triangle, centered on Mt Gambier, SA, and near Gympie Qld. The Forest and Wood Products R&D Corporation funded the project, which began in 1998.

For the pine/native forest comparisons, researchers selected about 20 sites where plantations – Pinus radiata in Mt Gambier region and slash pine (P.elliottii) in Queensland – meet native eucalypt forest. The plantations, mostly first rotation, were in the 23-27 years age range.

The scientists analysed soil samples for a wide range of chemical properties affecting soil fertility – notably organic matter content, levels of major nutrients nitrogen and phosphorous and base cations calcium, magnesium, sodium and potassium and soil pH. "We found no major changes in soil properties; in fact some have improved," says CSIRO project leader Dr. Clive Carlyle.

Among specific results, the researchers found average organic matter levels under pine were about 16% higher than in the native forest soil. Carlyle suggests this is a consequence of the higher productivity of the plantations. He says that, under the management system developed in the Green triangle region, pine productivity is currently increasing from one rotation to the next making the plantations there a good example of sustainable forestry.

No difference showed up in nitrogen levels between the pine and native forest sites, an important result in the light of earlier concerns about declining nitrogen levels under plantations. Phosphorus levels were substantially higher under pine because of the use of phosphorus fertiliser. The plantation soils were slightly more acid, but their pH remained safely in the range where any acidity impact on a subsequent non-tree crop would be negligible. No change was detected in base cation levels.

The pine/pasture comparison showed much higher levels of phosphorus and nitrogen under pasture than under plantation. Carlyle says this is the result of frequent superphosphate applications and nitrogen fixation by clover in the improved pasture.

The key finding, though, was the lack of a major difference in organic matter levels – in fact these were marginally higher in plantation soil. "This has important implications for carbon accounting and carbon credits. It indicates the effects of converting land from pasture to pine is neutral."

IDENTIFYING YOUR LIBRARY OF THE FUTURE

The Southern Tablelands Regional Library received a grant of $5600 in July 2000 from the NSW Government to develop a corporate image. A co-ordinating committee including Inda Evans [Chair], Judith Williams[Deputy-Chair], Greg Smith[Executive Officer], Penelope Fenley[Regional Library Manager] and Barry Thomas[Tallaganda] has been established, with local contacts for focus group meetings as follows:

Marilyn McGrath [Tallaganda/Braidwood]
Kerry-Ann Pratley [Crookwell]
Sylvia Brook [Goulburn]
Inda Evans [Mulwaree]
Michael Coley [Gunning]
Bill Lucetti [Yass].

These meetings will be held in November and the dates will be publicized throughout your community/shire in October. Members of the community will be invited to contribute ideas on their information/library needs from 2001 and the role of the Southern Tablelands Regional Library in the community over the next 5-10 years.

From this feedback will be drawn the directions the service will be taking, and the identity it will project throughout the region. Further information may be obtained from your local focus group contact, or by emailing:

POEM OF THE MONTH

TOUGH STUFF THIS GROWING OLD!

Everything hurts – whatever doesn't hurt doesn't work
The gleam in your eye is the sun hitting your bifocals
You feel like the morning after but you haven't been anywhere.

Your black book contains only names ending in M.D.
Your get wind playing cards
Your children begin to look middle aged.

You join a health club but don't go
A dripping tap causes an uncontrollable urge
You know all the answers but no one asks the questions

You look forward to a dull evening
You need glasses to find your glasses
You turn out the light for economy instead of romance

You sit in a rocking chair and can't make it go
Your knees buckle but your belt won't
Your back goes out more than you do.

You put your bra on back to front and it fits better
Your house is too big and your medicine chest is not big enough
You sink your teeth into a steak and they stay there.

Your birthday cake collapses from the weight of the candles
I just want to live long enough to be a problem to my children.

The Rhino's last chance

The Rhinoceros is struggling for survival. There are only five species (different types) left in the world and they are all on the verge of extinction.

These amazing creatures are the second largest land mammals on earth (the elephant is the largest of course!).

Rhinos are famous for their horns, which are actually made out of the same stuff that is in your fingernails - keratin. But it is their horns that make them prey for humans. Some people believe that rhinoceros horn has special properties and they pay hunters (or poachers) lots of money to get these horns. Usually the hunters will kill a rhino just to cut off the horn.

Rhinos are found in Africa and Asia.

The Sumatran Rhino, which is also known as the hairy rhino and stands at only 1.35m high (it is the smallest rhino), is the most endangered of them all. There are fewer than 300 left.

The four other types of rhino are the Asian One-Horned, White, Black and Javan Rhino. Of these, the Black Rhino, which lives in central and southern Africa, is dying out the fastest. The Black Rhino can be dangerous - sometimes it will charge in the direction of a strange sound or smell. However, if it smells a human it will usually run the other way.

Most rhinos are gentle creatures though, and love nothing better than wallowing in mud!

SAVE THE RHINO

The Rhinoceros is the animal of the year for 2000.

Learn more about rhinos on our website or tune into Animal Planet (a pay TV channel) on October 4th for a Rhino special to celebrate WORLD ANIMAL DAY
